STREET DIRECTORY.

The streets named by the letters of the alphabet and numerals, respectively, are laid out at right angles, the former running east and west from North and South Capitol Streets, and the latter running north and south from East Capitol Street and the Mall, streets so named being not included in the following list. The avenues named for States of the Union run diagonally from different centers, the most prominent being the Capitol and the Executive Mansion. Many of the original blocks or squares were so large that new streets and alleys have been opened and named, the list of which shows a continued increase from year to year. The decimal system of numbering is used; it is on the principle of allowing one hundred numbers to each square, and greatly facilitates finding a particular number, and is advantageous in case of a fire or the tearing down of a block of buildings, the numbers that follow not being thereby disarranged. All addresses have the additional designation of north-west, southwest, northeast or southeast, according to their direction from the Capitol, upon the meridian of which Major L'Enfant constructed the plan of the city; the Capitol building is very nearly the exact center of the city.
